

Georgii S. Malakhov is currently a lab assistant in the Laboratory of Structure-Function Drug Design in the Department of Bioinformatics of Institute of Biomedical Chemistry. He is currently a student of Lomonosov Moscow State University at the Faculty of Bioengineering and Bioinformatics. He has already authored three published research papers. His current research interests are in methods of virtual screening of small molecules and peptides.